Intro:

G G

Chorus:

G D
Pretty little manzanita, underneath the alligator tree
Where the deer and the javelina, run around wild and free
Out in the wilds of Prescott where the land's as big as your dreams
The pretty little apple of my eye, is the Queen of the high country

Verse 1:

G D
The manzanita is the little apple, it spreads across this land
With burgundy branches and green leaves dancing, all across the sand
The Palo Verde covers the plains, the manzanita claims the hills
Where granite dells over look the pines and Gila monsters thrill

Chorus:

G D
Pretty little manzanita, underneath the alligator tree
Where the deer and the javelina, run around wild and free
Out in the wilds of Prescott where the land's as big as your dreams
The pretty little apple of my eye, is the Queen of the high country

Verse 2:

G D
The black jack oaks are hardy, the people here are tried and true
The scorpions and rattle snakes, do what critters do
The yucca plants are home here, the Junipers share it too
Where the pretty little manzanita, lives underneath the alligator tree.

Chorus:

G D
Pretty little manzanita, underneath the alligator tree
Where the deer and the javelina, run around wild and free
Out in the wilds of Prescott where the land's as big as your dreams
The pretty little apple of my eye, is the Queen of the high country

Verse 3:

<sup>G</sup>The high desert is a paradise, for lizards and coyote<sup>D</sup>
There are places here, most folks can't live, unless they learn to be<sup>G</sup>
At peace with the slopes and desert, the wild and high country<sup>G7 C</sup>
Where the pretty little manzanita, lives underneath the alligator tree.<sup>G D G</sup>

Chorus:

<sup>G</sup>Pretty little manzanita, underneath the alligator tree<sup>D</sup>
Where the deer and the javelina, run around wild and free<sup>G</sup>
Out in the wilds of Prescott where the land's as big as your dreams<sup>G7 C</sup>
The pretty little apple of my eye, is the Queen of the high<sup>G D G</sup>
